SALISBURY IS A BULLY.

Michael Davitt's Opinion of the Premier of Great Britain.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19.-Michael Davitt, M. P., founder of the Irish Land League and home-ruler, arrived in this city to-day from Sydney, Australia, on the steamer Alameda. In an interview to-day Mr. Davitt said: "Salisbury is a big bully. It is time something was done to check him in his wild career. England has been going around the world for years bullying and ing on little countries. Now, if she is to be allowed to become more and more tyrannical and unjust in the carrying out of this policy among the republics of the western world, is absolutely necessary that some powerful nation here shall assume the task of doing police duty, so to speak; of standing up between the op-pressed and the would-be oppressor from abroad and saying 'Hands off.' It strikes me that the Monroe doctrine, carried out, s the United States in just the position that I have suggested it is necessary for some powerful government to fill. GROSVENOR NOT IN LINE.

He Doesn't Like Cleveland's Interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine. NEW YORK, Dec. 19. - Congressman Grosvenor, of Ohio, assailed President President Cleveland's interpretation of the Monroe doctrine at the reulon of the Eleventh Army Corps to-night. When Mr. Grosvenor was introduced by General De Cesnola, president of the association, there was a general expectancy that he would discourse on the President's Venezuelan message. The anticipation was instantly realized. "It is a long time, in my judgment," Mr. Grosvenor said, "before we shall be called upon to face another war. I don't ook soon for open hostilities. I think that ither Congress or the British nation will be stampeded—one or the other—before g. These threats of foreign wars are useful. They locate germs of wonderful pam. "Upholding the Monroe doctrine in all cases has been the consistent priniple of the Republican party since its or-anization. The Republicans in this city ejolog in the enunciation of that doctrine the President of the United States in the Venezuelan imbroglio, and regret that in other cases—such as the Corrinto affair where the propriety of this application was sven clearer than in the present instance, it was not enforced. General Miles made no reference to the Venezuelan situation, but Governor Coffin, of Connecticut, in responding to the toast, "The Nutmeg State," said: "Anything I may say of this matter may fall short of conviction. I am sure there will be no division of sentiment shown in the matter of the President's message. Our people are one in commending his patriotism and the manner in which he has met this crisis. I regard it as unfor-tunate, however, that our Secretary of State should have stirred up British feeling. Let us be just. I believe it is a time for careful reflection and consideration. We should be careful in what we say to our mother; we are of one blood, and accursed be the person who shall be guilty of pre-cipitating a war between mother and daughter."

PATRIOTIC

MADE AT THE AMERICAN "COMMER-MERCIAL DAY" BANQUET.

Centennial Celebration of the Jay Treaty-Addresses by Frye, Porter, Dickinson and Others.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. -Patriotic decorations and patriotic speeches were the order to-night at the American Commercial banquet, given at Delmonico's. It was the centennial celebration of the Jay commercial treaty with Great Britain, as well as the inauguration of the annual observance of "Commerical day" by all organized commercial bodies. Many men of the world were present, and over three hundred guests were seated. Dr. Chauncy M. Depew presided, and with him at either side at the table of honor sat Mayor Strong, Secretary of the Navy Herbert, William Jay, a direct descendant of the statesman who secured the Jay treaty; Gen. Russell A. Alger, Gen. Horace Porter, Bishop Potter, Charles H. Cramp, Don M. Dickinson, Wm. P. Frye, Clement A. Griscom, Charles A. Dana, Andrew H. Green, Wm. H. Webb, James T. Kilbreth, collector of the port of New York; Henry B. Hyde and Charles N. Taylor.

The banquet was given under the auspices of the editors and contributors of the recently completed history entitled, "One Hundred Years of American Commerce," of which Dr. Depew is the editor, and to which one hundred of the most eminent men in the country have contributed each a chapter. There was an hour's reception in the parlors below the banquet hall, from 7 to 8 o'clock, and the topic of conversation was chiefly on the Venezuelan controversy and President Cleveland's attitude. Bishop Potter opened the banquet with a short prayer. It was an hour later when

Dr. Depew rapped for quiet and opened the toast list. "Our Merchant Marine" was responded to by William P. Frye, United States Senator from Maine. "If," he said, the toast has reference to our coastwise, lake and river fleet, then I have only words pleasant to the American ear. Through the century it has experienced a steady, healthy growth, until it has reached magnificent proportions, until its tonnage of documented and undocumented vessels is eight millions—greater than that of Great Britain, Germany, France, Spain and Italy combined yed in like business. In 1893 passed through the locks at Sault Ste. Marie, in eight months, a little over eleven millio tonnage, two million more than the Suez canal carried in the entire year. • • If the toast has reference to our ships engaged in foreign carrying trade, a subject of much graver importance from a national point of view, then the picture I am com-pelled to draw is, indeed, a mortifying and miliating one for a rich, prosperous and powerful maritime country, once the only rival of Great Britain on the ocean, to look

"The American Business Men" was the subject of a few remarks by Gen. Horace Porter. He asserted that since the abolishment of slavery manual labor had been dignified. Of our young men he said they should be taught that every honorable path is open to their success, that they have ample opportunity, that if they possess or can acquire the necessary quali-tles they can become conspicuous leaders, can put themselves in command, can get to the front, can stand among the men who can convince when others cannot advise. The speech of Hon. Don. M. Dickinson was on the subject of "American Commerce." Much of his address referred to Cuba, touching which he said, in part: "I lo not advocate the forcible acquisition of Cuba, nor do I make a plea for annexation if she shall achieve her indep I do urge, however, that we shall at least perform our duty by the Cuban insurgents and by Spain, always within the rules of international law, even if, in the performance of that duty, Cuba shall be incidentally aided in achieving her independence." pain had not been our friend, and Mr. Dickinson referred to instances to show the lack of friendship. The inhuman meth-ods practiced in the conduct of the present war by the law of nations, he said, called for the intervention of this government.
"The Cubans should be accorded belligerent rights. Self-protection-nay, self-respectdemands recognition." Mr. Dickinson sub-mitted figures on the wonderful growth of ake shipping, which he submitted as an had families living at Cumnock. Eight of argument and an appeal to the best thought of the country when the West and South ask for an open waterway to Several other speeches were made before the banquet closed.

NEW BATTLE SHIP'S TRIAL AGAIN RESULTS IN A FIASCO.

Unable to Stand the Test and Her Engines Had to Slow Up-Trouble with Structural Work.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19 .- Once more the official trial of the battle ship Texas has had to be postponed, this time after she had Glass as to his further movements.

Sea and weather conditions were all that could be desired for a successful trial of the big battle ship when she left her anchorage off Staten island this morning. Exactly at 10:30 o'clock the word was passed to the examining engineers that the trial had begun to test the horse power of the ship's engines, for which the specifications called for 8,600. The conditions were that for each unit of horse power developed in excess of this amount the contractors were to receive $100 bonus, and, on the other hand, for each unit under that number they had to forfeit $100. The contract price was $364,500, the contractors being the Richmond (Va.) locomotive and machine works. For the first three hours of the trial the general average speed attained was 17.8 knots, the maximum being 18.6 knots. The ship was kept in her eastern course until she reached a point about twenty-five miles she reached a point about twenty-live limits south and six miles east of Shinnock light. She was then turned leisurely and headed for New York again. By this time every one on board was delighted with the showing made so far, and it looked as if the vessel would more than accomplish everything required by the specifications during the four hours' run, as in fifty minutes more the trial would have been completed, but it was soon apparent that there was some-thing wrong down below, as her speed slack-ened very perceptibly. The trouble was in the engine and fire rooms. Large quantities of cold water were being used to keep the journals cool. The water ran into the crank pits and was then sent to a main drain pipe which extends through the engine room The water falls into cisterns in the fire room, where the bilge pumps are used to carry it away. The pumps were totally in-adequate for this. In consequence the place became flooded and work had to be stopped. This same difficulty was found on the pre-liminary trial, and was, therefore, not due to any accidental choking or straini When it became known that the trial had to be postponed once more there was the deepest regret expressed, as it is quite prob able that another trial may not take place for a couple of weeks yet. The ship will, very likely, be sent back to the Brooklyn navy yard to have changes made which will obviate the trouble which stopped to-lay's trial. Everything considered, the showing made by the vessel to-day was very satisfactory and there is no doubt that after being prepared for another effort it will

FORTY-THREE COAL KILLED IN AN EPLOSION.

Catastrophe in the Old "Egypt' Mines, Famous During the War in North Carolina.

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 19.-At 9 o'clock this morning, shortly after the day force, umbering sixty-seven men, had gone on duty at the Cumnock coal mines, six miles west of here, a fire damp explosion occurred with terrible effect. On hearing the report the people of the village and relatives of the entombed miners hastened to the scene. After pumping fresh air into the shafts several miners were prevailed on to venture down and investigate. They found and brought out twenty-five men from shafts Nos. 2 and 3, five or six of them being badly wounded and some will probably die. A mule and two men were killed in slope No. 2. After considerable delay the searching party entered slope No. 1, where they were greeted by a most horrible and ghastly Dead men fearfully were found, some of partly covered up with pieces of coal, timber and other debris. At 4 o'clock ten or twelve miners went down to bring up the dead bodies, but at last accounts none of the dead had been recovered. It is believed that forty-three men were killed. Some of them were negroes and foreigners and the rest natives of North Carolina. Several the dead miners were from Pennsylvania and expected to return to that State tomorrow to visit relatives. A quantity of dynamite was in the mine and exploded, wrecking coal cars and splitting massive pieces of timber into kindling wood. The dead are.

The Cumnock mines were opened about fifty years ago as the Egypt mines, and before the civil war a commission of ordnance experts reported in favor of establishing there a great gun plant, as iron ore of good quality is quite near. During the war the coal was used at the Fayette-ville arsenal, to which the plant from Harper's Ferry, Va., had been removed. Some of the coal was also used on blockade runing steamers leaving the port of Wilmingbut as it made a good deal of smoke several of the vessels were betrayed and captured. fifteen years ago was pumped out and some mining done, but the output was small. Five or six years ago a company composed of Pennsylvanians was formed which bought the mine, and two years ago expended $200,-000 on new machinery. This company changed the name this year from Egypt to Cumnock, after a noted mine in Scotland. This year a contract was made to furnish he Seaboard Air-line with three hundred Two weeks ago Governor Carr and State Geologist Holmes visited the mine and went to the lowest level, which is about 450 feet deep, the shaft being about fifty feet deeper. The output they found to be about one hundred and fifty tons daily. There had not until to-day been any special trouble with gas in the mine. The force of miners
